Organizational History

In response to a call for towns to form a militia in 1774, the Town of Westborough established a militia unit and elected Captain Edmund Brigham (1733-1806) as its commanding officer. The British attack at Lexington and Concord on April 19, 1775 prompted forty-six men from Westborough to march to Lexington and on to Charlestown that same night.

The militia unit would continue to fight throughout the American Revolutionary War, and Westborough soldiers saw action at Bunker Hill, Dorchester Heights, Bennington, Saratoga, White Plains, Philadelphia, Monmouth, Newport, and other places. In addition to supplying men to the Continental Army, Westborough also contributed money, clothing, shoes, cattle, grain, and other supplies to the cause, and blankets woven by Westborough women were sent to the soldiers stationed at Valley Forge in the winter of 1777.

Scope and Content Note

These records document the Town of Westborough's role in forming, arming, and supplying the Westborough Unit of the Massachusetts Militia and the Continental Army through the American Revolutionary War, and they demonstrate the sacrifices the Town made to support the war effort. The collection mixes muster rolls, military orders, and personnel records of the Militia Unit with Town records related to supporting the general cause of the American Revolution, including meeting minutes, reports, financial accounts, bills and receipts, and interactions with the State of Massachusetts. Documents of note include the Proclamation of Independence by the General Court of MA Bay on January 23, 1776 (Military Oversize Box, Folder 1.04) and a 1774 Tax Bill to the towns signed by Samuel Adams (Military Oversize Box, 1.07).

This collection was among a group of historical records that were transferred from the Town Clerk's Office vault to the Westborough Public Library during the renovation of Town Hall starting in 2013. Charles H. Reed, a town member with an interest in history, first gathered the records and organized them in 1929, and afterwards the artificial collection was stored in a wooden box labeled, "War of Revolution." The index he created for the collection and the envelopes he used to organize them are stored in the final folders of this collection, and they provide important and interesting information about the contents of the collection. In 2014, the collection was reorganized to conform as much as possible to current practices for organizing archival materials, and the records were transferred to archival quality storage containers.

Note: an envelope labeled "14 – The Hessian Prisoners, Nov. 4, 1777" was originally indexed by Charles H. Reed, but was not found in the collection and is currently lost.

Note: A tax notice issued to the town in 1775 appears in the Historical Records of the Evangelical Congregational Church (LH.082) collection in folder OS.13.
